The Fort Sill Regional Growth Management Plan (the “Plan”) is the result of an ongoing partnership among community stakeholders to prepare for growth related to the mission transformation and BRAC deployment at Fort Sill. The study area consists of all or portions of five counties, 14 cities and 14 separate school districts in southwest Oklahoma, with the cities of Lawton, Elgin and Cache identified as the primary impact area in this report. Local and state service providers also participated actively in the study and assisted in identifying critical issues and potential implementation strategies with the planning team. This document represents a summary response to the region’s collaborative and collective effort to establish a unified and consistent approach to the challenges facing their communities, thereby creating and sustaining an enhanced quality of life and prosperity throughout the Fort Sill region.

This study was prepared with financial support from the Office of Economic Adjustment, Department of Defense. The content reflects the views of the participating local government entities and stakeholders of the Fort Sill region and does not necessarily reflect the views of the Office of Economic Adjustment.

The following individuals were instrumental in the development of this Plan.
